THE 1996 WORLD FOOD SUMMIT: EATING ART - GET THE BEST FROM YOUR FOOD - FOOD FOR ALL

On November 13-17 of 1996, as parallel to the FAO World Food Summit, in Rome, at the Roof Garden of the Palazzo delle Esposizioni, it was staged the exhibit event From Welfare to Well Being: Eating Art, Get the Best from Your Food, Food for All, featuring within the Ark of the Well Being pavilion more than 150 works by artists from all continents, video and interactive media displays inspired by the theme of the FAO Summit. Presented by the Consortium for the Well Being in the 21st Century in collaboration with the FAO Food and Nutrition Division, it was managed by the Institute for the Italian American Experience and curated by Plexus International Art Forum Inc. with the collaboration of Gruppo Progetto Arte Urbana. An official FAO internet site was placed inside the Ark of the Well Being pavilion linking the World Food Summit at the FAO Headquarters, closed to the general public for security measures, through a media link realized in collaboration with RAI International.

The World Art Bank Project

The purpose of the World Art Bank, a non profit community-based on-line project, is to promote the trade on internet of artworks from all the world. As a contribution to a broader poverty reduction strategy, people-centered, focused on “culture in sustainable development”, the Art Bank will finance directly:

- the development of community-based nutritional well being educational projects, conducted with the technical collaboration of the FAO Food and Nutrition Division, in the most poor countries;
- the development of a micro-credits lending programme to help art productions (canvas, brushes, colors, etc) of unknown and poor artists and masters of art traditions in developing countries and in most disadvantaged communities around the world;
- the promotion of the conservation of the House of the Slaves in the Goree island, off Dakar, at risk of high littoral corrosion, with a world cultural heritage relevance.
